Holyrood's Public Sector Data Protection 2019 conference will take place almost 18 months on from the GDPR coming into force.

Having had time to bed into the new system, and evaluate key challenges and opportunities of the new regulatory regime, what are the key priorities for Scotland's public sector when it comes to data protection?

Holyrood's Public Sector Data Protection Conference provides an invaluable opportunity to come together with colleagues across the sector and build a clear strategic understanding of how to remain compliant, and how to leverage data protection and security to benefit your organisation.

You'll hear from expert speakers and thought leaders from across the United Kingdom, who will provide practical examples of good practice in overcoming challenges related to implementing both GDPR and the Data Protection Act.

The conference will also provide an invaluable forum to hear from suppliers of innovative technology who will be on hand to answer your questions and guide you through a host of products that can improve performance and make your life easier in keeping your organisation compliant.

Tickets are free for the public sector, but places are limited, so register now to make sure you don't miss out.
